

KILLS ONE; WOUNDS FIVE BEFORE SLAIN

Sheriff of Queens County, N. Y., Murdered By Squatter

Home of Frank Taff is besieged by Police, Deputy Sheriffs and Bluejackets for an hour and a half before fugitive is finally killed.

WHITE STONE, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Paul Stier, sheriff of Queens county, was shot and killed and four policemen and a deputy sheriff were wounded later today by Frank Taff, a squatter near here, before Taff was killed by Police Sergeant James Fitzgerald after a siege of an hour and a half during which policemen, deputy sheriff and bluejackets from the United States torpedo boat fleet tried to capture Taff.

Slays Sheriff With Shotgun.
Sheriff Stier, accompanied by a deputy and policeman went to Taff's shanty, located in a strip of woods, to arrest him on an order for contempt of court. When the officers informed Taff of their mission he picked up a shotgun and fired at them. The sheriff dropped to the floor mortally wounded. Mrs. Taff who had admitted the sheriff, fled from the shanty and Taff ran to the roof with a rifle and a liberal supply of ammunition.

Sergeant Obtains Automatic Rifle.
Police reinforcements arrived soon and the shanty was surrounded. After five men had been wounded by the squatter, Sergeant Fitzgerald obtained an automatic rifle from the torpedo boat and approaching the hut ordered Taff to surrender. Taff fired at Fitzgerald and the latter, a former United States soldier returned from the fire. Taff fell dead on the roof of the shanty.

Probably Mentally Unbalanced.
The police said tonight that Taff probably had been mentally unbalanced, due to his failure to perfect the invention of a "fin" propeller for motorboats. He wasted his money, it was said, in futile efforts to have the propeller placed on the market.

A judgment for $600 had been obtained against Taff. This was followed by a court order to show cause in supplementary proceedings. He was fined $250 for failing to appear and his non-appearance in court again to pay the fine led to issuance of the writ which caused the tragedies today.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE ISSUE 2ND INSTALLMENT

Charges of Secret Agreement Between Hughes and American Independence Conference Refuted by Head of That Organization.

New York, Oct. 23.—The Democratic national committee tonight issued what it termed the "second installment" of charges that a secret agreement exists between Charles E. Hughes, Republican presidential nominee and the American Independence conference, of which Jeremiah A. O'Leary is one of the heads.

Based Upon "Official Records."
Tonight's statement, the Democratic national committee announced, is based upon the official records of the O'Leary organization and attempts to show by excerpts from Mr. Hughes speeches what is alleged to be a compliance with the "demands" said to have been made upon the Republican nominee by O'Leary and his associates.

Hughes Silent for Present.
The statement was issued tonight by the Democratic National committee was read over the telephone to the secretary of Mr. Hughes at Montclair, N. J. Mr. Hughes declared he had nothing to say tonight concerning it.

O'Leary's Issues Statement.
Jeremiah O'Leary in a statement tonight said in part:

"Governor Hughes has stated correctly what happened at our interview with him. In order to prevent any possibility of misunderstanding or representation we had carefully reduced to writing what we wished to say to Mr. Hughes.

"Our statement speaks for itself. The man who attempts to find fault with any portion of it, particularly with the question we asked 'whether or not Mr. Hughes would administer the presidency of the United States in accordance with the spirit of the fathers and the whole American people' is not a true American."

Mr. O'Leary said there was nothing secret about the conference and asked:

"Why should there be?"

He said the interview as given request.

EIGHT MEN CHOSEN ON COPELAND JURY

Trial of Texas Man Charged With the Killing of Anti-Catholic Lecturer Begins.

Galveston, Texas, Oct. 23.—By holding a court session that lasted almost until 7 o'clock Judge Clay Stone Briggs tonight succeeded in empanelling eight of the twelve men who will try John Copeland, a bank cashier of Marshall for the killing of William Black, an anti-Catholic lecturer, in that city on February 3rd, 1915.

May Complete Jury by Noon.
It is thought the jury will be completed by noon tomorrow. James G. Stubbs, leading counsel for Copeland said he would attempt to prove self-defense. Six of the jurors selected today are Protestants and two are Jews.

Takes No Part in Selecting Men.
Copeland, a member of the Catholic church, an alert looking business man sat directly behind his attorneys but took no part in picking the men who will decide his fate. The state exhausted twelve of its peremptory challenges before the session ended. The defense still has left six challenges.

Keep Close Watch on Proceedings.
Close watch was kept on the proceedings so that nothing might seep out from the court room that would influence witnesses and prospective jurors. Judge Briggs ordered that newspapermen should confine their descriptions of each man's business and religion. Every venireman exempted from jury was warned expressly by Judge Briggs to keep a closed mouth on all that occurred while he was in the court room. It had been anticipated that because the killing of Black grew out of an alleged attempt by the three defendants, Copeland, George Ryan and George Tier, all Catholics, to have the lecturer cease attacks on institutions of that church, there would be great trouble in obtaining jurors.

The Jurors Who Have Been Chosen.
The men selected for jury service today, all residents of Galveston, were:
E. P. Morse, painter, Protestant, but no church affiliations.
R. G. Porridge, baker, German Lutheran.
George Clutterbuck, merchant, an Episcopalian.
A. A. Farb, produce man, a Jew, who said he did not attend religious services.
W. G. Tabb, real estate man, Episcopalian.
J. B. Ebberelein, paper hanger, a German Lutheran.
A. J. P. Voight, machine shop owner, Protestant, but not regular church attendant, who said his wife was a Catholic and his children attended a Parochial school.
D. E. Wolfe, bookkeeper, Jew.

GREAT LAKES STORM CLAIMS MANY LIVES

Hope that Steamer Merida Had Escaped Is Dispelled—All Crew Believed Lost.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The finding of six bodies in Lake Erie today confirmed fears entertained that the steamer Merida, owned by the Valley Camp Shipping Company of Midland, Ont., was wrecked in the fierce gale which swept the lake Friday and in which three other vessels, the steamer Marshall F. Butters, the whaleback James B. Colgate and the schooner D. L. Filer, were lost.

Fifty Lives Are Lost.
The Merida carried a crew of 23. Twenty-one on the Colgate and six on the Filer were lost in the storm, making the total lives lost in the wreck 50. Another was added to the list today when it was learned that Walter J. Tedeo of Redwood, N. Y., a seaman on the barge Isaac L. Bell, was washed overboard while the ship was at anchor off Bar Point during the storm. The property loss on the four ships is estimated at $325,000.

Six Bodies Recovered.
The steamer W. D. Matthews brought three bodies of the Merida crew into Toledo today and the steamer Charlotte Breitling took three into Windsor, Canada. The revenue cutter Morrell started out late this afternoon to search for more victims. The Canadian steamer Clenshe also is conducting a search.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 23.—All hope that the Steamer Merida, long overdue at Buffalo, had escaped the storm, was dispelled early today, when it was learned that several bodies, some of them wearing life belts stamped "Merida" were picked up in Lake Erie by the Steamers W. B. Matthews and Charlotte G. Breitling. The Merida was commanded by Captain H. L. Jones of Buffalo. She carried a crew of 23 men, all of whom are believed to have perished. Twenty-one lives were lost with the whaleback steamer James B. Colgate and six when the D. L. Filer foundered. All thirteen of the crew of the Marshall F. Butters were rescued when that vessel was caught in the gale and sank.

PANCHO VILLA TRAPS CARRANZA VANGUARD

Troops Under General Carlos Ozuna Led Into An Ambush

Bandits Along Railroad Pour Heavy Fire Into Exposed Carranza Troops, Who Retreat to Santa Ysabel—Report Gen. Ozuna Has Been Killed Officially Denied.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 23.—Francisco Villa led the Carranza vanguard under General Ozuna into an ambush between Santa Ysabel and San Andres, on the western division of the Mexico Northwestern railroad, Friday, a report received here stated.

Officials Admit Heavy Fighting.
According to this report, obtained by secret service agents for the federal department, Villa retreated from a position forty miles on the railroad west of Chihuahua City toward San Andres. This led the Carranza vanguard into the trap. The bandits hidden in rocky defiles along the railroad poured a heavy fire into the exposed Carranza troops, according to the report. The same source of information claims to have confirmation of the report that the Carranza troops then retreated to Santa Ysabel, then to Palomas and are now in Fresno, the first station west of Chihuahua City. Carranza officials here admit there has been heavy fighting between Santa Ysabel and Chihuahua City, but General Gonzales in Juarez insists he has received no details.

General Jacinto B. Trevino, commanding the forces of the Carranza government in Chihuahua City and the northern zone, sent an official denial today to General Francisco Gonzales in Juarez, of the report that General Carlos Ozuna had been killed. General Trevino's message stated General Ozuna was in good health.

Spends Time on Hearst Ranch.
Villa spent several days on the Santa Ana ranch near Namiquipa, one of the Hearst properties before he and his band suddenly left a week ago according to a letter received here today from the manager of the ranch. They made their visit a costly one to the Hearst estate by slaughtering six hundred bees and turning their horses loose to feed in the corn fields. All available horses were seized. Villa's men were only partially armed. On leaving, the men said they had been called to Santa Ysabel. They seemed unable to find ammunition caches which they were seeking. General Pershing, it is known, unearthed numerous ammunition caches while in the Namiquipa district.

Fighting on Own Property Sunday.

A scouting force of the Fifth United States Cavalry from the Pershing expedition was at Las Cruces, about 25 miles distant, while Villa was at Santa Ana, the letter said. Villa was fighting on his own property Sunday, it is learned here. His ranch at Fresno was acquired by purchase from a German.

FOUR DIE WHEN AUTO PLUNGES INTO RIVER

Wealthy Advertising Man and Social Settlement Workers Drown in Chicago River.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23.—Hugo J. Warner, wealthy advertising man, and three others, all social settlement workers, were drowned tonight when Warner's limousine plunged over an open draw bridge into the Chicago river tonight. They were returning from the Maxwell settlement house.

The Dead.
Warner, who was 31 years old, was advertising manager and director of the firm of Lord & Thomas. He was master of the Boy Scouts of the settlement.

The others who were drowned were:

Sylvan Kusel, 29 years old, law student and teacher of English to the foreign class at the settlement. Miss Lillian Klausner, social worker in Maxwell settlement and Hull House.

The Rescued.
Mrs. Henrietta J. Warner and Miss Sarah Bernstein, both settlement workers and socialists, were rescued. They escaped from the closed car and were thrown against piling where they clung. The bodies of the drowned have not been recovered.

Did Not Hear Warning Signal.
The rescued women were so chilled, it was several hours before they were able to identify themselves and other members of the party.

The bridge had been opened to permit the passage of a boat. The women agreed they did not hear the warning signal and that no chains had been stretched across the roadway. With in ten feet of the bridge, the automobile rolled down a slight incline and skidded when Mr. Warner realized the danger and applied the brakes.

John Gavin, city policeman, who was near the bridge, said he heard the crash when the car skidded against the bridge work and before he turned around it had disappeared.

Both Strong Swimmers.
Mrs. Warner and Miss Bernstein were both strong swimmers and were able to save themselves.

Mrs. Warner, with her husband and Kusel, were in the front seat. "There was a rush of water as the car struck," she said, "and I tried to open the door, but was unable to. I turned to the other side on which was the steering wheel. My husband had been there a minute before, but must have broken the window and got out. I felt the whole and swam thru it and managed to reach piling."

One of Rear Doors Broken Off.
Miss Bernstein said one of the rear doors had been broken off apparently by a piece of driftwood and she had managed to swim out to safety.

Warner was a brother-in-law of Albert Lasker, president of Lord & Thomas. Kusel was the son of Isador J. Kusel, president of the Stronghart company, advertisers. He was reported to have been engaged to wed Miss Jennie Klausner, who was a student at the University of Chicago. She was the daughter of Solomon Klausner, a wealthy real estate dealer. Miss Lillian Klausner was the daughter of Samuel Klausner, a wealthy wholesale liquor dealer.

GOLD IN U. S. SHOWS INCREASE

Twice As Much Gold in Country Now Than 1904 and 40 Per Cent More Than at War's Beginning.

New York, Oct. 23.—Shipments of gold to the United States since the beginning of the European war in conjunction with the domestic production, brought the total of gold in the country from $1,887,270,664 on August 1st, 1914, to $2,636,099,564 on Oct. 1st, 1916, the gain in the amount in the twenty-six months' period being $748,738,904, according to a compilation announced tonight. The amount of gold imported during the war, it is pointed out, is greater than that for the full decade preceding the war and the imports for June, 1916, were greater than in any full year prior to the war with the single exception of 1908. ## BRITISH CAPTURE GERMAN TRENCHES

Over 1,000 Yards Taken North of Somme River

British Artillery Stop German Plan for Attack in Region of Grandecourt—Dobrudja Region of Rumania Overrun by Teutonic Ally Forces.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—More than a thousand yards of German trenches in the region of Grandecourt and Lesboeufs were taken by the British in fighting north of the Somme river in France this afternoon, according to the official communication issued tonight.

In the region of Grandecourt the British artillery stopped a German plan for an attack.

The Dobrudja region of Rumania apparently is being overrun by the forces of the Teutonic allies.

Push Beyond "Railway Line."

Constanta, Rumania's chief seaport and fortress on the Black Sea, already has fallen into the hands of troops of the right wing of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army, while the left wing is nearing the town of Thernavoda, where the Danube is spanned by the bridge of the railroad running from Constantza to Bucharest. Near the center of the front which extends across Dobrudja, from the sea to the Danube, the invaders have cut the railroad near Murfater and pushed their troops "far beyond" the railway line, according to Berlin.

Russians Are in Retreat.
Before the rapid advance of the Germans, Bulgarians and Turks—rapid despite heavy rains and soggy ground—the Russians and Rumanians are in retreat along the entire front, but according to Petrograd are offering stubborn resistance.

Most Notable Incident of the Day.
Aside from the operations in Dobrudja, another British smash at the German line in the Somme region of France which netted them more than a thousand yards of trenches east of Guerdacourt and Lesboeufs and carried their front a step nearer the Bapaume-Peronne road, is the most notable incident of the fighting on any of the fronts. Again described by Paris as "appreciable," also is recorded for the French northeast of Morval, which lies just to the south of the region where the British and Germans were in contact.

Report Attacks Repulsed.

Berlin in touching upon the fighting against the British and French Sunday between Lesars and Rancourt, says the attacks of the entente allies were sanguinely repulsed. It is admitted in the German official communication that the Germans withdrew Sunday night from the north of Chaules south of the Somme to a prepared position lying east of the northern part of Chaules wood.

The Transylvania Front.

On the Transylvania front stubborn fighting still is in progress between the Teutonic allies and the Rumanians for the mountain passes and the territory inside Rumania captured by the Austro-Germans.

Stop Attack North of Brody.

The Russians, having been cleared from Narayuvka river region of Galicia, the Austro-Germans have hurled a violent attack against other forces of Emperor Nicholas near Brody, near the Volhynia-Galicia border. The attack was repulsed, according to Petrograd.

RUSSIAN BRINGS SUIT AGAINST MAGAZINE

Monk Wishes Return of Certain Articles Which Metropolitan Has Purchased But Refuses to Publish.

New York, Oct. 23.—Whether certain articles dealing with the alleged influence of Rasputin, the so-called Russian mystic over the Russian court and written by Illiodor, a Russian monk, and alleged to have been withheld from publication by the Metropolitan Magazine, may be published elsewhere is the object of injunction proceedings brought by Illiodor against the magazine in the supreme court here today.

Refuses to Publish Articles.
The plaintiff asks that the magazine "be restrained from interfering with me in the publication of my articles," alleging that after the Metropolitan had agreed to publish them for $5,000, "it seems now, and with the connivance of the Russian government the Metropolitan magazine refused to publish these articles and is willing to pay me in order to suppress them."

May Work Injury to Russia.

Illiodor, who says he arrived in the United States from Norway in June last, alleged that "the suppression of this information at this time when it may weaken or destroy the Rasputin influence and intrigue may work an incalculable injury to Russia and will defeat the purpose for which I am working and have suffered in prison."

Rasputin Strongly Pro-German.

Characterizing Rasputin as "an illiterate and uneducated peasant, who is known as a pilgrim possessing certain supernatural gifts," Illiodor describes in his complaint the alleged domination of Rasputin over the Russian court, asserts that Rasputin is strongly Pro-German and is "now engaged in a conspiracy to bring about a separate peace with the Russian government," all of which was to have been the basis of his articles.

Claims He Was Promised a Pardon.

He alleges that when it became known that the articles were to be published, he was promised by the Russian consul general, Ilya, Ostroff, and the Archbishop Evdokim $25,000 and a full pardon so that "I could go to Russia if I did not publish them" and that later on "pretending to take up the negotiations," Ostroff paid him $1,000.

Metropolitan Claims Ownership.

The Metropolitan, he alleges, claims the articles as its property and will enjoin him from publishing them elsewhere. Illiodor claims they are his thru breach of contract.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Chief Chas. C. Healy, chief of police, was indicted on two charges in returns made in the criminal court here today. Essig, secretary of the Sportsman's Club, as co-conspirators in a plot to nullify the anti-gambling laws.

That One Term Resolution

Appropos of the visit to Jacksonville last night of Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer is the recollection that it was to Mr. Palmer that President Wilson wrote advising that the resolution providing for making the president of the United States ineligible for re-election should be killed. This action in congress promptly followed and Mr. Wilson thus in violation of his party platform pledge paved the way for re-election in 1916. That platform pledge was unequivocal and read: "We favor a single presidential term and to that end urge the adoption by amendment to the constitution making the president of the United States ineligible for re-election, and we pledge the candidate in this convention to this principle."

The year following—that is, in 1913—William J. Bryan in his speech to the Pennsylvania legislature at Indianapolis and elsewhere referred indirectly to the famous one term pledge that a man who did not live up to his campaign promise was worse than an embezzler.

In Kansas.

Miss Harriet Vittum, western manager for the women's work of the Republican campaign has received word from Mrs. W. V. Morgan of Kansas that the women of Kansas will give Hughes a big majority in the November elections. Mrs. Morgan says:

"The majority of the women of Kansas will vote for Mr. Hughes because they believe in him and in the politics he stands for. This is the first time that Kansas women have had an opportunity to vote in national elections and they are expected to cast a big vote. The Republican party is the only party that offers anything to women so it is no wonder it is having the enthusiasm of the women voters. I heard Mr. Wilson speak before the National Woman's Suffrage convention at Atlantic City this fall. No man ever had a better opportunity and no man ever missed it up worse. I never heard such a flow of language such flights of oratory. It took an agile brain to keep up with his cultured stream but it didn't take a quick mental machine to know he had not pleased the women.

"The Hughes Alliance is attracting a big line of thinking women who are not necessarily Republicans but who favor Mr. Hughes for president. Mr. Hughes jeopardized his political chances in the eastern states when he came out for national suffrage amendment, no wonder women are working for Mr. Hughes."

Mrs. Morgan is president of the Kansas Suffrage association and is one of the women who led the votes for women cause to victory in her state.

The Study of German and Russian.

Both sides of the much-mooted question whether the study of German will be unfavorably affected by the war, was ably discussed by Prof. Allen Wilson Porterfield of Columbia University in a recent issue of "School and Society." A great falling off in the number of students studying German in the American universities has been noted since the beginning of the war, but it is doubtful if the heat of sympathy for the cause of France and England which is at the bottom of this will subside in the cold light of reason when the war fever subsides. There looms on the intellectual horizon also when one would consider these matters, the increased influence of Russia in every field, commercial as well as literary, which everybody expects to be vastly potential after the war, and a development in the study of Russian which will be little short of marvellous.

In revising the trend of events, Dr. Porterfield conscientiously presents the best and the worst that can be said as regards both the Germans and their language. His own view is that the study of German is very helpful to Americans, and that the number of people interested in this study is not likely to be influenced by the war, no matter which way the victory goes. He points out that "there is no phase of human existence that German literature does not treat; there is no foreign literature the best of which the Germans have not translated; there is no field of art and science which the Germans have not cultivated; there is no literature in which principles of discipline, moral and ethical, are more potently set forth; there is no body of national writings in which it is made more plain that the love between citizen and country is natural; there is no great modern literature more closely related to the English."

Rippling Rhymes By WALT MASON

Threatened Men.

Doc Whiskers says, "I am not joking when saying you must cut out smoking, or cross to t'other shore." I listen to the admonition of that renowned and learned physician, and then I smoke some more. The docs are fond of threats and bluffing; they like to scare you while they're stuffing their pills into your craw; they like to raise a little riot about your exercise and diet, while brandishing the saw. Long years ago the doctors told me that graveyard vestments would envelope me, unless I ceased to smoke; I heard their rede, then, late and early, I kept on smoking good old burley, and quite forgot to croak. At least a dozen famous surgeons, apothecaries and druggists, have told me of my plight. "Unless you quit your old rank briar, the nicotine will knock you higher than Gilroy's famous kite." Ad still my briar is a fixture; I still consume the Flour Flash mixture, and buy it by the pound, and while the docs stand round and threaten, reproaching me that I'm forgettin' I'll soon be underground.

"Where did Hughes get this profound sympathy for the people? Back in his humble beginning in the little cottage where he was born at Glens Falls, New York, among the hills. Back in his struggles as a poor boy at college, in the little academy at Delhi, New York, where he taught school so that he might study law; in the night schools that he taught in the city of New York to eke out his living before success came to him. When success did come he was never unmindful of the struggles of others and has dedicated the best years of his life to promote the public welfare.

"The Hughes I know is a man in whose veins the warm blood courses, whose heart beats with ready sympathy for his fellows.

"I speak advisedly as one of the many young men befriending in the law and over whose career he watched with anxious solicitude. I worked shoulder to shoulder with him in the old Broadway office in New York as his assistant. Nothing like chicanery would be tolerated by him and, even in those days we marveled at his breadth of mind and his insistence that no case should be won by sharp practice, but solely according to the rules of the game and upon its merits.

"His practice unfolded one success after another at the bar. No case was too complicated to puzzle him, no undertaking too arduous. In one of his cases involving the beet sugar industry he went to Detroit and studied all the machinery and processes in that industry. He went to the farms and studied beet culture and he posted himself on every scientific question involved in the case.

"At last the trial took place and a famous scientist from Hesse, Germany, was called as an expert to disprove his contentions. His cross-examination was a masterpiece and resulted in the breaking down of the defense and the settlement of the issue. At its close the scientist inquired how long he had been engaged on the case and when told said, 'Well, he is a marvel. I have been interested in this case for many years but Mr. Hughes has mastered all the scientific knowledge of the day, and in my cross-examination went forward to future problems, as to which no human being, to my knowledge, has yet made inquiry.'

"Again and again he refused permanent retainers from captains of great industries because he wished his work as a lawyer to be free from entanglement and restraint. This he desired more than the great gain which would easily have been his.

"One day a group of New York judges were dining together at the Hoffman House. One said, 'Who among the younger men will take the places of Root, Choate and Carter at the bar?' 'I will tell you one man, who will,' said a judge, 'and that man is Charles E. Hughes.' This prophecy was most remarkably fulfilled. His reputation increased by leaps and bounds, and it was natural that when the gas investigation in New York City was considered that Hughes should be the man to undertake this complicated work. The question was whether the gas rates to the public of New York City could be fairly reduced. As was usual with him he dropped all his other work at great sacrifice and gave himself wholeheartedly to the task. He went to the gas plants, studied the process of manufacture, the system employed in the business, the values of the investments, and the whole territory involved. This was the Hughes style of preparedness—to know what he was after before he made his start. The investigation was a marvel of directness and thoroughness, and fully sustained the reduction thereafter made by statute based upon its findings. Hughes would not draft the statute until the facts brought out in his investigation had been thoroughly analyzed.

The result was that the law stood against the assaults of most resourceful antagonists who invoked the constitution and archaic theories of economics to sustain the gas company's objection but it was finally sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States. It became a common saying in New York in those days that Hughes was 'the people's lawyer.'

"Again he showed the same spirit, the same fellowship with the people in the New York Insurance Investigation. As he himself puts it, 'Grave irregularities had been discovered in the management of life insurance corporations. Official positions had been used for private gain and the money contributed by the policy-holders for their mutual protection had been wasted in a scandalous manner. Extravagant salaries had been paid, favorites had been permitted to enrich themselves at the expense of the policy holders. An elaborate system had been established for the purpose of controlling legislation in the State and throughout the country and enormous sums had been secretly disbursed without proper vouchers. The revelations of these grave abuses in connection with our greatest fiduciary institutions shocked the civilized world.'

J. P. Lippincott, Misses Marian and Georgia Fairbank have been appointed delegates to the Springfield Association of Congregational Churches, which is to meet in Woodburn Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

MRS. LOU MURPHY IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Woman Taken to Hospital Suffering From Fractured Skull—Mystery Surrounds Case.

Mrs. Lou Murphy is at Passavant hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull and minor bruises about the neck and shoulders. Dr. J. U. Day, who attended her, does not know as yet whether the fracture will result seriously. The injured woman is the wife of George Murphy.

There seems to be some mystery about the affair. Dr. Day stated to a reporter for The Journal early this (Tuesday) morning that he was called to the residence of Elmer Cannon on North Sandy street and found Mrs. Murphy there. He called an ambulance and had her removed to Passavant hospital. He also notified the police and Capt. Roach went to the hospital and questioned Mrs. Murphy before she was put under an anesthetic. Mrs. Murphy was very reticent as to how she was injured, saying that she fell and hurt herself.

The police do not believe this and it is probable that a further investigation will be made today. Dr. Day was of the opinion that Mrs. Murphy was hurt some time between 5 and 6 o'clock Monday. However, he was not called until about 10 o'clock.

The fracture is at the back of the head and there is a hole of considerable size in the scalp. There are also a number of bruises about the neck and shoulders.

ROADS WANT UNIFORM STANDARD OF OPERATION

President of Burlington Defines Attitude of Railroad Interests in Statement.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The attitude of the railroad interests toward state railroad commissions was defined here today in a statement by Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road and chairman of the railroad president's committee in the recent trainmen's controversy. He denied the roads were seeking the destruction of the state boards but said the roads would like to place exclusive control of all questions pertaining to railroad affairs that were more than statewide in their functions, under the interstate commerce commission or some other federal body.

Leads to Confusion and Expense.
"First, in importance," he said, "is the rate making power. Forty nine states' commissions making rates and rules for the government of interstate carriers is rapidly leading to confusion and much unnecessary expense to the carriers. Forty nine states requiring many different standards of operation would bankrupt an average railroad and mean nothing to the public except the bad results coming from lack of uniformity."

Should Have Federal Control.
"State railroad commissions have their legitimate field, but all matters that have an interstate affect should, in our opinion be the subject of federal control."

Deatherage claimed two tramps gave the goods to him.

MAY RETAIN NATIONAL AND RACIAL CUSTOMS

Protestant Episcopal Church Makes New Ruling in Regard to Jews—Effort To Give Women Power To Sit As Delegates Abandoned.

St. Louis, Oct. 23.—Jews, who have accepted Jesus Christ as the messianic and have become communicants of the Protestant Episcopal church, may retain, if they desire, the Jewish national and racial customs and feasts, according to a ruling of the house of deputies of the church's general convention, in session here today. The action was based upon a resolution in which it was asserted there are in the United States hundreds of Jews who have accepted Christ and yet have hesitated to affiliate with Christian denominations because they do not care to abandon their racial customs.

Committee Reports Adversely.
Efforts to have women permitted to sit as delegates in the house of deputies of the general convention were abandoned today when, on the heels of a rejection at the hands of the house of bishops, a lower public committee reported the proposal adversely.

Will Not Change Present System.
The house of deputies refused, by a 100-90 vote, to adopt the recommendation of a special committee proposing the present system of equal diocesan representation in the house of deputies be changed to one of proportionate representation. Fears were expressed by representatives of some of the smaller dioceses that the proposed amendments would throw the balance of power to the larger and wealthier church bodies. The report proposed that, instead of each diocese being represented, as at present, by four clergymen and four laymen, a minimum of three delegates from each order be allowed from dioceses, with an additional lay and clerical delegate for each one hundred resident clergymen, the maximum representation being six from each order.

Have Seat But No Vote.
The lower house refused to concur with the house of bishops in its action giving a seat and vote in the upper house to suffragan bishops. Concurrent action is necessary. As at present suffragans have a seat but no vote. However, the lower house adopted a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment allowing suffragans to substitute in the event of the death or disability of the bishop.

Session Will Remain Secret.
The house of bishops today rejected a proposal to open their sessions which have been behind closed doors, since the first triennial convention in 1879 to the press and public.

The Pacific Logging Congress will be in session Thursday and Friday to discuss improvements in logging practice, leaving by special train Friday night to pass the next day in the Gray's Harbor camps seeing field demonstrations.

Rochester N. Y., Oct. 23.—J. Frank Hanly, the Prohibition presidential candidate turned his guns on President Wilson here tonight, declaring his "standpattism" on the liquor question outstripped the "Aldriches, Cannons, and Penroses in their blindest and most reactionary hours."

Attitude Stands "Unchanged"
Hanly based his attack on letters received by the Prohibitionists from Secretary Tumulty declaring that the President's attitude on the liquor issues had stood unchanged for almost six years.

"He has not changed his mind on this issue in six years, tho the world has," Hanly shouted.

Changed on Every Other Policy.
"The president has seen the world passing before him in triumphal march toward liquor's abolition," Hanly continued, "but he has not changed his mind upon every other policy of state that has come before him."

Mrs. R. H. Ashbaugh of Detroit has completed her second year as president and by the rules of the federation is ineligible for reelection. Several candidates are in the field to succeed her. The convention has its formal opening tonight with a banquet at the Masonic temple. The business sessions will begin tomorrow morning and continue until Friday.

Public interest in the trials has been aroused to a high pitch because of the prominence of many of the defendants. ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENCE

Berlin, October. — (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The certified check, so long a big factor in the business life of America and other countries, has made its appearance in Germany. Under a new decree of the Federal Council the Imperial German Bank is now empowered to certify its depositors' checks. The certification is valid for but ten days from the date of issue. Judging by the experiences of the first few days of the new regulations the arrangement will prove very popular. Although the decree primarily affects the Imperial Bank, other banks can, in suitable cases, procure certified checks for their depositors, although these have no accounts in the Imperial Bank.

This, perhaps, is the most important step in the efforts of imperial state and municipal authorities throughout Germany to substitute payment by check for cash transactions. But it is only one of a long series of measures directed to the same end. Measures are now being taken to abolish or greatly reduce the fees heretofore charged for postal checks, and the payment of taxes, bills for gas, water and electricity, and such items by check or through the postoffice will be made easier. The Association of Berlin Banks and Bankers has decided that, beginning on October 1 next, it will charge its depositors the same fees for postal check payments that are now charged by the Imperial Bank.

The change brought in Germany's financial system and habits is one of the most striking of all the many changes due to the war. The first noticeable development along this line came with the introduction of one and two-mark paper money, the issuance of new five, ten and twenty-mark notes, and the disappearance of gold from circulation. The Germans, more than any other great nation, clung to cash transactions, and did not like paper money. Great quantities of gold were in circulation, and to receive a small bill in payment of anything was an unusual event.

Surprising as it is, Germany's whole check system is only a little more than nine years old. In the seven years that checks had been in use up to the outbreak of the war they had failed to become popular, and the entire check transactions of the empire were, if not negligible, at least very inconsiderable. This was due to a variety of causes. One was the German predilection for hard money. There was the stamp tax of ten pfennigs on every check. Only "bearer" checks could be drawn, payable to anybody who might present them, and who was not required even to identify himself. The banks assumed no responsibility for misuse of the depositor's checkbook by a third person. The checks were issued in a specified form and numbered by the bank. If a third person got possession of the checkbook and forged the depositor's name, the bank, provided it had paid out the money on the forged check, was not liable to the depositor. These things, incidentally, have not been changed.

Many business men and merchants of considerable standing never used checks. Small tradesmen very generally did not know what a check was when they saw one. The American who first paid his house rent with a check found that he had to explain to the collector what a check was and what he must do to get the money on it, and even then the man went away shaking his head dubiously. One had the same experience with tailors, butchers—in short, almost everywhere that he tried to make a payment with anything except cash.

Much is expected of the Imperial Bank's power to certify checks. A great reduction of cash transactions particularly at months' and quarters' end settlements is looked for, especially since checks thus certified are legal tender. If expectations are realized, it will mean a great reduction of note circulation of the Imperial Bank, and a consequent strengthening of its position.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED AT CENTENARY

Congregation Cleared Away Debt at Service Sunday—Rev. W. S. Phillips Gives Interesting Reminiscence at Meeting Monday—The Program Tonight.

The fiftieth anniversary of Centenary M. E. church and the one hundred and fiftieth year of the foundation of Methodism is a time of special interest to Methodists of the churches of the city and of Jacksonville district. The influences for good which have emanated from the Centenary church have by no means been confined to the bounds of a single city. They may be traced from town to town and from state to state.

Sunday will long be remembered as a red letter day in Jacksonville Methodism. A strong program was carried out and in addition to this all church indebtedness was cleared away. Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock services were held in the Sunday school room in charge of the Rev. W. S. Phillips of Cerro Gordo, Ill. The father of Mr. Phillips was twice pastor of Centenary church and highly interesting were the words of reminiscence given

Rev. E. L. Fletcher.

Monday evening by the son. Concert This Evening.

This evening a concert will be given in the main auditorium of the church. On Wednesday evening Rev. F. A. McCarty, the district superintendent, will be in charge. This service will be the culmination of the anniversary series and will in many ways be notable.

When the services of the fiftieth anniversary opened Centenary had a debt of $3,568 and when the final word was spoken this entire sum had been wiped out, the subscriptions exceeding this amount by several hundred dollars. The debt had accumulated in four or five years' time and was occasioned largely by improvements made in the property. Dr. Krantz made an appeal for subscriptions at both services and the response was hearty and liberal. The largest subscription was $1,000 and came from the Ladies' Aid Society. The total money given was $4,105.

Devotion was the lesson that Dr. Krantz pointed out in his Sunday morning sermon and he used the faithfulness of the early Jews toward their church as a fine example. The text was found in the 121st Psalm, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go up into the house of the Lord." "If church members of today had the faithfulness and devotion of the Jews to their houses of worship there would be no empty pews." In the evening Dr. Krantz answered some of the criticisms so often directed at the church, showing how large a place the church occupies in our present day life and how that spirit of usefulness has already been broadened with passing years. Brief remarks were also made by Dr. F. A. McCarty and by Rev. E. L. Fletcher, pastor of the church.

Attended Dedication.

At the evening service there were a number present who had been in the audience when the church was dedicated fifty years ago. Six of them came forward and were accorded special honor. They were: Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Rapp, Mrs. Carr Me and Mrs. J. E. Hoffman, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Jackson and Charles Hocking. Deem Rapp was another one present at the service who also attended the dedication. Frank Bristow, secretary of the official board, read a cordial letter of greeting sent by Central Christian church and the secretary and pastor were requested to send a reply on behalf of the church.

The Sunday school orchestra gave three or four selections at the beginning of the service Monday evening and these were appreciated by each of the members and friends who had gathered. Prayer was offered by Dr. Joseph R. Harker, president of Illinois Woman's College. Mr. Phillips related many incidents of interest which have marked the fifty years of existence as a church. As the son of Centenary's pastor, Mr. Phillips was well acquainted with many of the church's early workers and he had been acquainted also with most of its ministers. He spoke of his own conversion and mentioned the fact that it was from Centenary that he was licensed to preach.

A feature of the program was a duet by Thomas Rapp and Mr. Phillips, two members of a quartet which once took part in Centenary services.

Greetings From Grace.

Greetings from Grace church were extended by the Rev. Frederic B. Madden. The Rev. J. N. Jerman of Franklin was present and responded with appropriate words of greeting. Dr. F. M. Rule added his word of reminiscence of early days and Dr. Harker spoke in historic vein, mentioning the fact that Methodism in this community is older than Jacksonville. The city will celebrate its anniversary in 1925, said he, but the foundation of a Methodist charge took place in 1823 and the centennial of Methodism will be two years earlier.

Following is the concert program to be rendered at 8 o'clock tonight: Organ—Fantasia (Lux), Miss Myrtle Larimore. Voice—Sweet Wind That Blows (Chadwick), A Boat Song (Ware), My Heart Ever Faithful (Bach), Miss Rena M. Lazelle. Violin—Largo (Handel), The Swan (Saint Saens), Miss Eloise Capps. MOVED HOUSE CAUSES LEGAL MIX-UP Building James Ball is to Take to Moundside Occupies Place on College Avenue.

The prospects are that the frame dwelling house which James Ball commenced to move three weeks ago from the site on West Morgan street to one outside the city limits in Moundside addition, will not reach the latter location at any early date. The house has been for more than two weeks at the corner of Webster avenue and College avenue. Because Mr. Ball was unwilling to indemnify the company for $15 as the possible cost of raising the trolley wire so that the house can be pulled across, the company would not do the necessary work. But when the contractor threatened to pull the building so close to the tracks that the cars could not pass, the company secured an injunction in the circuit court.

Under usual procedure this injunction will stand until the November term and meanwhile the street is obstructed in an annoying and somewhat dangerous way. Now it is understood that Mr. Ball believes that he has some ground for securing damages against the company and the chances are that there will be considerable "lawing" in the circuit court over this transaction which to begin with was of a very unimportant kind.

MILLIKIN SCOUTS IN THE CITY.

Thinking that the Illinois-St. Louis University game was to have been played Monday afternoon nearly the whole Millikin team came to Jacksonville Monday. Among the number were Catlin, Killbreath and Johnson. The others we did not know.

The men had a nice visit and viewed the beauties of the city to their heart's content until train time. It is probable that if Coach Harmon had known of their coming he would have arranged a special practice and scrimmage for them and illustrated all of his new plays so that they would have time to practice stopping them before November 14.

Coach Harmon got in communication with the St. Louis University management Saturday night and it seems to have been a plain case of "switching." When the game was postponed from last Friday Coach Harmon suggested Saturday to play the game. The St. Louis manager thought Monday would be better and that was agreeable to Illinois. Then it was found the faculty objected to the team coming here Monday. It seems to us that it was just a plain case of cold feet and St. Louis was afraid of the result of the game.

METHODIST MINISTERS AND LAYMEN HERE

Preachers and Stewards Will Convene at Grace M. E. Church This Forenoon at 9 O'Clock—Seek $500,000 Fund for Retired Ministers.

The campaign for an endowment fund of $500,000 for the benefit of the retired ministers of the Illinois conference will be one of the themes for consideration today at the annual meeting of the preachers and stewards of Jacksonville district, Methodist Episcopal church. This subject will be presented by the Rev. E. L. Fletcher, pastor of Centenary M. E. church.

The meeting will begin at 9 o'clock. Other subjects for consideration are "The Forward Movement in the Sunday School," "Winning Our Constituency" and "The Value and Need of Christian Men."

At 12:15 o'clock the ministers and laymen will meet in the basement of the church and will enjoy luncheon as guests of the Rev. and Mrs. F. A. McCarty. After the lunch the stewards will meet separately, with C. C. Grimmer of Palmyra, a well known layman, in the chair, and the preachers will meet with the district superintendent, Dr. McCarty.

At 2:30 o'clock the ministers and laymen will again assemble and O. T. Purl of Carrollton will present the subject, "The Laymen's Association, Its Possibilities." Dr. Theodore Kemp of Bloomington, president of Illinois Wesleyan university, will be present and will speak on the subject, "The Man and His Job."

The campaign for the half million dollar fund is under the direction of a commission appointed by the last Annual Conference at Springfield, and is composed of fifteen ministers and sixteen laymen prominent in the affairs of the church.

The plan of the campaign is that each church of the Conference shall pay into this fund a sum equal to the cash salary paid to its pastor last year.

For the purpose of more efficient work the churches of the Conference have been divided into three groups; the autumn group which comprises, for the most part, the rural churches; the winter group is composed of the larger towns and cities; and the spring group which involves the churches of the smaller towns and villages.

The pastors of the churches belonging to the autumn group are now busy giving out to their people information concerning the campaign preparatory to a canvass for funds which is to be made in November. This is the greatest undertaking the Illinois Conference has ever attempted and is the paramount work for the Conference year.

WELL KNOWN ASTORIA

CITIZEN DEAD.

Mrs. C. W. Home has returned from Astoria where she was summoned on account of the serious illness of her brother, Temple Toler, whose death occurred a few hours after her arrival. Mr. Toler had been for many years prominent in the business and social life of Astoria but with his family had spent the past year or two in California. He was intending to return to California a few months later when suddenly stricken with the disease that caused his death. He had been a man of such prominence in the Astoria community and was so widely respected that during the time of his funeral all the business houses were closed.

LOHENGRIIN TO BE PRESENTED FRIDAY

Coming of Chicago English Opera Company Means Notable Production.

The Chicago English Opera company, which will appear here for an engagement of one day at the Grand Opera House, will present the opera in the English language. The company is composed of some of the world's most famous operatic principals. A company of sixty is travelled, which includes two casts of principals, a large and well-balanced chorus, and a complete orchestra chosen from the leading American musical organizations.

The cast will include: Mmes. Mercedes Dalmado, Anita Sutherland, Mon. Haigh Jackson, Chas. Gerol, Arthur Deane, and J. Ellenhorn.

Each opera presented here will be under the personal direction of Mr. Basil Horsfall the well-known European composer and conductor. Complete sets of scenery are carried for each opera. A special train is required for the transportation of this company, three cars alone being required for the accommodation of the scenery, wardrobe, and baggage. ### MR. PALMER CHEERED DEMOCRATS AT ARMORY

Congressman Told Them Party Stands for Everything the People Want—Wilson Lauded in Unflinching Terms.

There seems to be a difference of opinion among democratic orators as to what the Republicans are making the paramount issue in the present campaign. Last week Congressman Rainey, in a speech at the court house, said that peace was the paramount issue. Monday evening, at Armory Hall, Congressman Palmer said the Adamson eight-hour law was the main issue of the Republicans in the campaign. The speaker was introduced by M. F. Dunlap.

Mr. Palmer confined himself mainly to statistics and to the good laws passed by the Democratic administration. The speaker, in his opening remarks, said that political parties were composed of men much the same throughout the country. However, he believed the Democratic party stood for all of the things of which the people approve.

"It is the Democratic party," said the speaker, "which has stripped the shackles from the feet of American business and enabled it to be extended on the seven seas to the uttermost corners of the earth. This condition of prosperity will continue so long as the Democratic party remains in power in Washington."

All Republicans Alike.
The speaker then launched into a criticism of the things Mr. Hughes has said and also took a shot at Roosevelt, Penrose, Root and other Republicans.

Mr. Palmer then told of the things that led up to the passage of the Adamson law. He said that when the Republicans took up the law as an issue he welcomed it.

Speaking of President Wilson's Mexican policy, the speaker read from a statement of Abraham Lincoln in support of the president's policy. In fact, he compared the president with Lincoln much to the gratification and pleasure of his Democratic hearers. "The Mexican question was raised in Lincoln's time," said the speaker, "Lincoln's answer was Wilson's answer." This statement met with great applause from the audience.

The speaker told his hearers that Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania had been called to New York and placed in charge of the Republican campaign. Mr. Palmer said: "When Penrose was called he told the Republican leaders he wanted full control and one million dollars. If Mr. Hughes is elected," said the speaker, "it will be thru the political methods of Boise Penrose."

Compared Wilson and Lincoln. Mr. Palmer also brought much cheer to the hearts of his hearers by telling them that Pennsylvania was considered a doubtful state. He appealed to all progressives, regardless of party, to support Wilson, stating as the reason they should do so was because the Democratic party represented the ideals of the Progressive party.

In closing, Mr. Palmer referred to the Democratic program for the building of a large navy and the establishment of a large army. The speaker said that he gladly supported the president in that program because he knew that the power of the nation would be safe in Wilson's hands and would be used only for the happiness and welfare of the nation.

FISH RECEIVED FROM STATE COMMISSION.

The state fish commission has recently sent 500 croppie and perch fish for the lake on the grounds of the Franklin Outing club. One hundred bass were also sent to John Flynn for his extensive pond near Clements station. The arrangement for securing the fish were made by J. G. Dowell of Franklin, deputy game and fish warden and the shipment was quite liberal.

HEDDING COLLEGE CAMPAIGN IN PROGRESS

Dr. J. R. Harker Joined With Other College Presidents to Assist in Work of Launching Day.

Dr. J. R. Harker returned yesterday from Knox county where he went to assist Saturday and Sunday in the endowment campaign of Hedding college at Abingdon. Dr. Harker took part in services at Galesburg, Knoxville and London Mills. The day was known as "launching" day and all the ministers of the Methodist church in the territory west of the Illinois river took part in the day's events, and twelve college presidents were there to assist them. Hedding college is now seeking to complete an endowment of $250,000 and has $200,000 of that sum. It is necessary to secure the balance in the next six weeks and the campaign is progressing under the direction of Dr. J. W. Hancher, who was so prominently identified with the last campaign of Illinois Woman's college.

November 26 will be "gleaning" day and the campaign is to close November 29. Judged by other special efforts made for Methodist colleges this one will be successful. The Methodist church has raised $13,000,000 for educational institutions in the last four years and the goal it is confidently expected to reach is $20,000,000 additional within the next two or three years.

As previously mentioned, ministers west of the Illinois are taking part in this special effort but those located in cities east of the Illinois river are reserving their energies and enthusiasm for the campaign which is to be inaugurated a short time later for Onarga college.

WAGES OF WOMEN OFTEN VERY SMALL

Five Dollars and Less Per Week Is General Average, States Pastor in Illustrated Lecture—Series on Social Themes at Christian Church.

"Women and Children in Toil" was the theme of the Rev. M. L. Pontius Monday evening, speaking to a well filled house at Central Christian church in the first number of a series of illustrated talks on social and industrial themes. Some salient facts were brought forth. There are 1,750,178 children between the ages of ten and sixteen in the United States who are wage earners. How many children under ten years are at work we do not know, as the census does not count them, but the number must be large. There are 5,319,912 female bread earners in the United States. The average wage of women workers in all vocations is less than five dollars per week. Facts and figures indicate that the most deplorable conditions exist among the children who are the employees in the cotton mills of this country, especially in some of the states of the South.

The only effective relief will come through a minimum wage to the husband and father, a wage that will provide for the family so that the women and children will not need to be wage earners. The boys and girls of today are to bear the responsibilities of citizenship tomorrow. The boy is the father of the man and the girl is the mother of the woman. They have the right to parental love, legal protection and to the fullest and freest development of all the faculties God has given them.

This was the first of a series of illustrated addresses to be given at Central Christian church during the winter. The other subjects are in the order they will be given: "The Battle for Health," "How the Other Half Lives," "Where the Other Half Lives," "The Amusement Problem," "The Coming City."

FIRE IN OAK STREET.

The fire department was called to a residence property in East Oak street Sunday morning about 8 o'clock where fire had started in the roof presumably by sparks from a passing locomotive. It was a long run and the department was compelled to lay 1700 feet of hose to reach the blaze. The pressure was so strong that several sections of hose burst, thus handicapping the work of the firemen. The roof was burned entailing a loss that Chief Hunt estimated at probably a thousand dollars. The house is owned by the Burlington railroad company and was occupied by J. H. Gebert. It is thought the house is insured but Mr. Gebert carried no insurance on the furniture and his loss will be considerable from fire and water.

HEALTH EXPERTS GATHER AT CINCINNATI

Meeting of American Public Health Association Will Discuss Paralysis Epidemic.

Cincinnati, Oct. 23.—With health experts gathered here from all parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba for the forty-sixth annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, which begins here tomorrow, the recent infantile paralysis epidemics in various parts of the country are the chief subjects of comment. Several sessions of the meeting are to be devoted to a discussion of this subject and it is expected that opinions, experiences and controversies will be given a thorough airing before the sessions close on Friday night.

Rivalling in interest the poliomyelitis epidemic is the place which public health experts are to occupy in the country's program of preparedness. Experts from the United States Public Health Service are here in considerable number and here, under direction of Surgeon William C. Gorgas of Panama canal fame rests the responsibility of protecting the officers and men of the army from the ravages of camp diseases. It is pointed out, however, that in case of war the men who are devoting their lives in increasing numbers to public health work will be called upon for most important services in establishment of camp sanitary measures and in guarding army water and food supplies from contamination.

During the week members of the association will visit the Cincinnati pumping and filtration plants and will inspect the various phases of child hygiene, school medical examination, open-air schools, dental clinics and the work which is being done for the conservation of vision in the public schools of the city.

WILL ENFORCE ANTI-SPIITING ORDINANCE

Commissioner Martin announced Monday morning that steps would be taken at once toward the strict enforcement of the anti-spitting ordinance. Commissioner Martin stated that Supt. Gray of the Jacksonville Railway company was preparing to enforce the ordinance as to street cars. It is the desire of Commissioners and to ask their assistance in making the enforcement of the ordinance effective. This step is taken to be in accord with other movements against the spread of tuberculosis and other communicable diseases.

Miss Cecil White of South Church street and Clyde Rudisill of Arendia spent Sunday with the family of Guy Critchfield of Peoria.

BROKEN WATER MAIN CAUSED TROUBLE

Leak Sprung on South Main Street Made All Night Job—Commissioner Vasconcellos Gave Special Courtesy to Light Company.

The ten-inch water main in South Main street sprung a leak Sunday afternoon. The water department was notified and the men, under the direction of Commissioner Vasconcellos, worked all night to repair the break. This was completed about 10 o'clock Monday morning.

It was necessary to shut off the water from practically the whole south part of the city. This included the Jacksonville Railway and Light company. Some of the valves had not been turned in years and it was a difficult matter to get some of them to work.

In order to keep the light plant running, Commissioner Vasconcellos laid a hose from a fire hydrant at the corner of South West and Anna streets to the tank of the company and kept the plant supplied with water. The action was a commendable one on the part of Commissioner Vasconcellos and Superintendent Gray greatly appreciated his action.

Superintendent Gray's Statement.

It was because of this action that Superintendent Gray made a statement yesterday, publicly voicing his appreciation of Mr. Vasconcellos' activity in behalf of the company. He said: "Commissioner Vasconcellos was under no more obligation to take care of us than any other consumer, but he appreciated what the service would mean to us and our patrons, and we are certainly grateful for the courtesy extended. Had it not been for the arrangement made our plant would have been shut down for several hours. Mr. Vasconcellos was not content to simply see the work done, but left his home in the middle of the night to superintend the work."

IT'S A BEAR.

"Be careful, he is looking for trouble and doesn't care who starts it," was the legend which greeted the eyes of Dr. Allen M. King Saturday when he went to the Wells Fargo express office to inspect a gift from his friend, Harold A. King of Ft. Davis, Texas. From behind the bars there peered a young black bear, somewhat ferocious after the long trip, but quite ready to take its place in Dr. King's up-to-date menagerie.

Russell Schute of Beardstown was among the business men of the city yesterday.

"CASCARETS" FOR A COLD, BAD BREATH OR SICK HEADACHE

Best for Liver and Bowels, for Bileousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred tongue, bad colds, indigestion, shallow skin and miserable headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good gentle cleansing, too.—Adv.

What to do when Backache comes on

"I found immediate relief in the use of Foley Kidney Pills, have recommended them, and do not know of a single instance when they failed to give relief."

C. U. Landrum, a traveling salesman, writes from San Angelo, Texas: "Driving over rough roads and in all kinds of weather gave me acute pains in the back and I suffered greatly. I found relief in the use of Foley Kidney Pills, and before the first bottle was used, the pain in my back had entirely disappeared and I have had no recurrence of those pains which frequently amounted to almost neuragic proportions." When backache comes on, and it seems as if you can't stand the pain and pressure in your back you will find quick and grateful relief comes with the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They stop the cause of the pain, ease the stiff aching joints and muscles, and clear the poisons out of your system by helping your kidneys and bladder to normal healthy action.

He was found wandering in the streets.

AMERICAN LEAGUE CLEAN-UP.

The National leaguers appear to have been outclassed from dugout to flagpole in this year's post-season series with the American league pastimers. Of the fourteen games played for the world's title and in the Chicago and St. Louis championship series the representatives of the parent league copped only two contests. Brooklyn grabbed one of the world's series games with the Red Sox and the Cardinals succeeded in downing the Browns once out of five starts.

In the Chicago series the American leaguers had their National league rivals gasping for breath. The White Sox started right after the Cubs at the top of the gong and thereafter they never even hesitated until the Tinklers had been whipped to the tune of four straight. It was the sixth consecutive year that the White Sox defeated the Cubs for the Chicago city championship.

The Boston Red Sox duplicated their feat of 1915 by taking four out of five games from the National leaguers in the big series. Totals in the box scores of the five world's series games show that the Red Sox made 21 runs, 39 hits and 6 errors, while the Robins gathered 13 runs, 34 hits and 13 errors. The critics agree that the Robins were outclassed, but the inhabitants of Flatbush point to those "13's" and declare it was the jinx that beat the Dodgers.

A Sensible Cigarette

More men are now smoking SENSIBLY—

MEN ARE willing to think a little more carefully today even about the cigarette they choose.

That is good sense. For if an otherwise good cigarette is unfortunate in its blend—if it disturbs after continued smoking—it is not worth while.

The one reason why Fatimas appeal strongly to so many thinking men is that they do not disturb. Fatimas are truly comfortable—comfortable to throat as well as tongue. And they always leave a man feeling fine and "fit" even after a long smoking day.

Don't Worry About Gray Hair

Gray hair is simply sick or starved hair. If any of the five vital elements—oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen or sulphur—are missing, the hair turns gray or falls out. You can prevent and overcome this by giving the hair follicles the nourishment needed.

VOLA-VITA

is a scientific preparation based on the hair analysis, made to supply to the hair roots the missing elements. Thus VOLA-VITA naturally restores youthful color to gray hair, stops hair falling and makes it grow. And VOLA-VITA contains no alcohol.

SIDEWALKS MAIN THEME BEFORE COUNCIL

Other Property Owners Watch East State Street—Agreement Reached There.

Much of the time at the council meeting Monday morning was taken up in the discussion of the laying of sidewalks where ordinances have been passed for the same. It was the sense of the council that the walks should be laid in East State street first as property owners on other streets were watching the final outcome of that street before doing any work.

When the council convened roll call showed all members present except Commissioner Vasconcellos. He came in before the meeting adjourned. A broken water main in South Main street just south of College street caused the water department employees to work all night to make the repairs.

After the reading of the minutes and approval of the same the Mayor announced that it was hoped to have the controversy relative to pavements which has been going on between the city and the Jacksonville Railway and Light company settled in a few days. The mayor also reported that all of the sidewalks in East State street had been laid or arrangements made to lay the same except one piece. This, the mayor said probably would be settled Monday afternoon.

Commissioner Martin reported that the department had been called to a fire in East Oak street Sunday and that 1700 feet of hose was laid to reach the fire. Commissioner Martin said that about 250 pounds of pressure was required and that the hose had burst in several places.

This brought out the fact that 500 feet of hose had been ordered for the department on August 4, and another 500 feet in September and neither shipment had arrived. Mayor Rodgers suggested that it would be well to make a tap at the pumping station or close there and install a hydrant. The mayor was of the opinion that if the pumps at the north end station were running that it would give ample pressure for any fire in that vicinity. He suggested that Commissioner Martin make a test in the near future when there was no fire in order to ascertain the pressure.

Commissioner Cox reported that his department was hauling cinders and repairing culverts and streets and doing general cleaning up before winter set in.

Mayor Rodgers reported that the concrete walk had been laid in Mathers street. He also called attention to the ordinance passed for North Diamond street and wanted to know about advertising for bids. The city attorney gave the council the law in the matter which is to the effect that bids must be advertised for not more than ten days nor less than five days.

The mayor suggested that all property owners residing in North and South Main streets and South Clay avenue should be modified to make all taps before the pavement is laid.

Commissioner Vasconcellos came in at this point. He reported that the department had worked all night repairing the ten inch main in South Main street. A break had occurred just south of College street. The repairs necessitated the shutting off of the water from the Jacksonville Railway and Light company. In order that the plant would not be compelled to shut down a hose was procured and laid from the hydrant at the corner of South West and Anna streets and laid to the company's tank, thru which water was supplied.

The mayor presented the resignation of Dr. H. C. Woltman from the committee appointed on the Glacklin fund. Dr. Woltman stated that he was interested in the coming election for the establishment of a county sanitarium and did not believe it best to hold the other portion. The resignation was accepted and the Mayor appointed Dr. Edward Bowe and the appointment was confirmed.

At this point the discussion of sidewalk ordinances was again begun. It was the opinion of the mayor that the council had used all the persuasion possible and that now it would be necessary to use a little force. After this discussion the council, on motion adjourned.

THE MYSTERIOUS FOE

A Series of Stories About Some Illinois Men, Women and Children. Issued by the Illinois State Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis

The folks that live in this house are afraid of "night air."

They think it is possessed of some mysterious and deadly quality that will make them sick.

For generations, the children in the group to which this family belongs, have been warned against playing outdoors after dark because the dew "might fall on them."

With the first chill wind in early fall, the mother of this family has proceeded to stuff the cracks around the windows with rags.

Flannel strips are tacked around the doors each winter so that when they are shut, they are practically sealed.

The doors are never permitted to remain open, until the coming of hot weather makes it a necessity.

Such a thing as sleeping the year 'round with the bedroom windows open is regarded as almost sinful.

There have been some very interesting results from this belief that has been handed down from mother to daughter and from father to son in this family for many generations.

We know now, of course, that this belief was founded on ignorance and the records show that it undoubtedly resulted in several deaths that might have been postponed for many years.

Going on the theory that bedroom windows should be closed and practically sealed at night, the members of this family and its predecessors have for years slept in rooms that were foul with dirty air.

They would retire at night, secure in the belief that no "draft" could reach them. They usually fell asleep before the stink of foul air became very noticeable.

Their lungs kept on working as they slept, using over and over, air that was filled with poison.

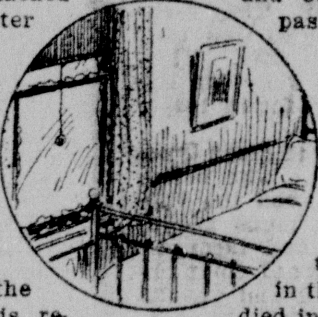

Members of the family often complained of headache and they were frequent sufferers from colds, grippe, and other diseases of the air passages.

In the past three generations two-fifths of all deaths in this group were caused by tuberculosis, often known as consumption.

Girl members of the family were slain by this preventable disease in their early teens. The boys died in early life, sometimes before or soon after marriage.

Because of the great number of deaths from tuberculosis in this family in succeeding generations, and because there were many other families with the same sort of a record, the belief was prevalent for many years that consumption is a disease that is inherited.

But now we know that this is not true. And we know that one of the best ways in which we can guard ourselves from tuberculosis is to give our lungs plenty of fresh air day and night.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

According to reports of ever increasing positiveness coming from Montana, there will be a Congresswoman in the next U. S. congress, and to Miss Jeanette Rankin of Missoula will come the extraordinary honor of being the first woman member of congress. Miss Rankin is running on the Republican ticket for one of the two Congress seats at large in the State of Montana, and wise "pois" watching the state's pulse are saying that she is going to win beyond the shadow of a doubt. She is principally responsible for making Montana a suffrage state a year ago, and for that reason the women voters are said to have taken a vow to elect her. She proved herself a sound as well as brilliant speaker in that campaign, and her reputation became statewide. When she entered the primaries this fall she won easily over seven Republican masculine opponents. Such is the enthusiasm aroused by her present campaign, which includes speaking trips to every town, mountain village and mining camp in Montana, that it is almost overshadowing the Presidential contest. The liquor question is the big local issue in the campaign, and Miss Rankin, as might be expected, is running on a dry platform, which fact is helping her considerably. She is a young woman, in the early thirties, and a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a social worker of note.

The announcement that Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood has joined the Woman's Bureau of the National Democratic Committee and will work for the re-election of President Wilson, recalls the strenuous early days of American women's activity in politics. Mrs. Lockwood, who will be 86 years old tomorrow, was the candidate of the equal rights party for President of the United States in 1881 and in 1888. She was born at Royalton, N. Y., was admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia in 1873 and has since been practicing the legal profession in Washington. She is in excellent health, takes an active interest in all questions and is an ardent advocate of world peace. The only other woman who was ever a candidate for President is Mrs. Victoria Claflin Woodhull Martin, who was nominated by the same party in 1872. Mrs. Martin, who is an author and lecturer on political and sociological subjects, is 78 years old and now makes her home in England.

Miss Mary F. Carr of Dover, N. J. was recently married to George Bush camp of Globe, Ariz., after a long distance courtship of nineteen years, during which the principals did not see each other. Mr. Bushcamp formerly resided in Dover. The wedding took place in Globe, to which the bride journeyed.

Miss Mary Lohlford, twenty-two-year old Stanford University student and daughter of an Escondido, Calif., banker, has announced that after she finishes another year's study in electrical engineering at the university, she will take charge of a gas and electric corporation which she recently bought for $10,000 at a public auction in Los Angeles. Miss Lohlford is already owner and head of the utilities corporation which supplies gas and electricity to Escondido, and instead of enjoying her wealth and social opportunities as most young girls of her age would do, is determined to learn all there is to be learned about her plants and what they produce. She is one of the most earnest students at Stanford, and books about gas and electrical engineering are a more familiar sight about her than dance programs and cotillion favors.

SOME FARM THEMES

SPECIALIZED WITH CHESTER WHITES

E. J. Henderson of Joy Prairie has returned from Aldeo, where he attended a sale of Chester White hogs and bought some choice animals for his herd. The gentleman makes a specialty of thoroughbreds in this line and has a lot of registered stock. He says the old-time objection that they were more susceptible to mange than darker colored animals has vanished as he has found them as healthy as any other breeds and free from any kind of disease.

He says his experience with them has been that they are prolific and mature early and as hardy as any good breed. He has several times brought six and seven months old animals to 200 pounds and sold them so on the market. He uses the Lion imported dip and applies it by spraying about twice a month, according to conditions, and in that way the skins of his hogs are healthy. With the exception of last year he has been exhibiting eight years and has captured a good number of blue ribbons. He rather prefers individual, portable hog houses, as they can be moved about as desired and have a good many advantages. He endeavors to have his sows farrow in March and September, and takes great care in their feed. He believes in keeping brood sows in good condition, though, of course, not too fat. For a week after farrowing he feeds them a slop of oats, tankage, shorts and a very little corn. After that he feeds more grain. By the time the pigs are three weeks old he places a mixture of corn, oats and tankage where the little pigs can get at, and beginning they eat more and more each day till they eventually learn to subsist on it entirely and are weaned at ten to twelve weeks.

After the pigs are weaned he continues the ration of slop, corn, oats and tankage. Oats he finds excellent for bone producing and is very partial to tankage, which he regards as superior feed for hogs. His show animals he treats differently, only using corn a month before show time, but for fattening for market he likes the combination of oats, tankage, corn and shorts. He says the day is gone by when a man can simply shovel out corn on the ground to his hogs and expect the best results.

He vaccinates about weaning time and gives the double treatment when the animals are eating well. He feeds lightly a week or so before weaning and for two or three weeks afterward. He keeps plenty of salt, ashes and charcoal where his hogs can always get all they will eat, but has never used copperas. He thinks well of good brands of stock food. He sees no need of hogs wallows, but firmly believes in plenty of good clear water and shade and then the hogs will not suffer with the heat. A hog is naturally a cleanly animal if you will let him be such by correct treatment.

Solving the Car Shortage Problem

The following clear summary of the car shortage situation appeared in a recent issue of the Manufacturer's News. The article was written by H. P. Lowell of the Bureau of Railway Publicity. This organization has been in existence since the first of the year with the purpose of creating a better understanding between the public and the railroads.

There is usually a large shortage of freight cars at this time of the year; not every year, it is true, but during periods of exceptional business activity there has been universal complaint because the carriers did not have enough cars to supply the demand. Cars are sorely needed for the movement of grain, but all industries are more or less affected, and to find the cause of this shortage we must go into the general financial history of the carriers.

The writer has just returned from a tour of central Illinois, where the cry for more grain cars is particularly insistent at present. On Sept. 20 he represented the Bureau of Railway Publicity of Illinois at a conference of grain dealers and railroad officers of the Public Utilities Commission where the methods of supplying grain cars were discussed at length. Many of the grain dealers expressed themselves emphatically in favor of providing the railroads with income sufficient to allow them to build enough cars to meet the demands of this season of the year.

Rate Advance Would Help

Their opinion may be shared by others, but much of the blame for the present shortage of cars could be placed upon the grain brokers and board of trade men who prevented the railroads of Illinois from advancing rates on grain a few years ago, according to William E. Cullen, commercial agent of the Chicago Junction Railway. From 1911 to 1913 Mr. Cullen represented the Rock Island Lines in an effort on a part of the carriers to secure badly needed revenue at a time when business conditions were poor.

"The railroads thought it would be fair and just," explained Mr. Cullen, "to advance slightly the rates in Illinois and in territory controlled by the markets of Chicago, Peoria, Cincinnati, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, and in the territory east of the last two cities. We did not propose to advance all rates in Illinois, but only where an advance could be made without discriminating between markets. Such advances as we proposed ranged from 1/4 cent to 1 cent, and in very few exceptional cases, to 1 1/2 cents per hundred pounds. A bushel of wheat weighs only 60 pounds, so that the proposed rates checked in by the carriers and tariffs filed, than a howl of protest came from every farmers' exchange, grain dealers' bureau, board of trade and commercial body in Illinois.

Earning Capacity Restricted

"The tariff was suspended by the Public Utilities Commission and the interstate commerce commission. Conferences followed at Chicago, Peoria, Springfield, East St. Louis, and at Washington, D. C. The carriers showed by facts and figures that their incomes demanded additional revenue, not only to provide for the present demand for better service, but to meet the demand forthcoming in years to follow.

In spite of all this argument, the advance was denied to the carriers in Illinois because of the protests of the grain brokers and dealers—but not of the grain growers. The interstate rates, however, were granted. The same situation was met in attempting to advance the coal rates.

"Why not let the carriers have a reasonable advance? Where do these people who protest against raising rates think that the money is coming from? In the Missouri valley territory the same scientific advances and readjustments of rates were proposed by the carriers and defeated by the grain brokers and dealers. The 'Western Rate Advance,' proposed in June of this year was rejected in July as having been not justified, but now the grain dealers are howling for cars."

This is a plain statement from a railroad man with years of experience in dealing with the public. He feels keenly the injustice of denying to the railroads the right to raise prices which is not denied to any other great industry. The earning capacity of the railroads has been restricted in the last ten years by the numerous state and federal regulatory powers. Prices have risen in other industries, but it seems that the people expect the railroads to do business today with the same prices that were in effect twenty years ago.

Money Needed For Equipment

The railroads have no large contingent fund on which to draw for the improvements necessary to handle the increased demands of commerce. This year, because of the exceptional amount of business transacted in this country due to the war in Europe, the railroads have enjoyed greater earnings than ever before. But increased business alone cannot provide the money with which to buy more equipment. It would not be practicable for the railroads to carry a surplus number of grain cars with which to move grain during the sixty or ninety-day period which occurs annually at this time of the year, and it has not been found practicable for elevator companies to own their own cars as do the shippers of meat and food products which require special refrigeration service.

The movement of grain from one end of the country to the other is too vast a problem. The railroads are doing their best to meet the demands for cars, although they have been unable to maintain a supply equal to the demand. The grain trade is desirable and under normal conditions it could be handled without trouble by the carriers. Railroads in Hands of Receivers

It is not a question of how to distribute or apportion the grain cars among the elevator men, but of how to get the cars for distribution at a time when cars are needed in every branch of business. The public is well aware of the congestion of loaded cars in eastern terminals, but the public does not seem to realize that it takes money to run the railroad business, the same as any other business.

"That all railroads are rich and powerful, seems to be a popular misconception, despite the fact that one-seventh of the railroad mileage of this country is in receivers' hands. The proportion of mileage in the hands of receivers today is much less than it was in 1896, because of the lower mileage now operated, but the Railway Age Gazette has pointed out the startling fact that the total mileage in receivers' hands is almost exactly the same as it was twenty years ago.

It is folly to exclaim, "Let the railroads be operated upon a business basis," for where is the railroad official today who it not doing his utmost to give good service honestly and efficiently? At present the railroads have placed large orders for freight cars, but these large orders cannot be filled for months to come. As a recent editorial in the St. Louis Republic observes, "Railroads, manufacturers, farmers and the general public must grin and bear the situation. There is nothing else to be done until the railroad industry of this country is placed upon a sound and more permanent legislative, wage and financial basis."

The Bureau of Railway Publicity has found that the manufacturers throughout the state are in sympathy with the request of the railroads for fair rates which will enable the carriers to take care of the increased amount of business. The manufacturers protested against the demands of the engineers, firemen and trainmen for increased pay, because they realized that railroad earnings should be applied to the purchase of more rolling stock.

The need of regulation is recognized, but regulation should be scientific and business like. Why should a regulatory body limit the earning capacity of an institution and yet refuse to limit the amount of money that should be paid out by that institution in wages, taxes and improvements demanded by the public?

BIG DEMAND FOR

OPERA TICKETS
Manager Johnson of the Grand Opera House said last night that mail orders have come in very rapidly for the performance of Lohengrin by the English Grand Opera Company next Friday. The regular seat sale opens Wednesday, but selections can be made by mail if accompanied by check.

There are a few seats left in the balcony, with an excellent selection on the main floor. The coming of the company promises to be the great musical attraction of the fall season.

DR. POST PAID TRIBUTE TO THE PURITANS

Congregational Minister Gave Interesting Facts About Early Residents to Whom the Present Generation Owes Much.

The year 1920 will be the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims or Puritans on Plymouth Rock and the virtual beginning of Congregationalism in this country. The churches of that denomination are already beginning to make preparations for a great celebration of the event. Rev. R. O. Post, D. D., pastor of the Congregational church, gave an interesting discourse Sunday evening on the subject of the Puritans, giving their ancestry, which is of the best and paying a just tribute to their grand character and achievements.

The country owes a debt to this people which is not surpassed by the obligation to any other persons in the world. They founded schools, colleges and churches. They were God-fearing, conscious of God. Liberty was their keyword. They owned supreme allegiance to God only and to no human prelate. They sought both civil and religious liberty for the two they found loosely interwoven.

There have been three great types of conquering nations. The orientals, like Persia, enslaved the captive peoples. The Romans subjugated captured lands and incorporated them into the great commonwealth exacting tribute and supplying rulers. The English, by conquest, permitted the conquered to become a part of the nation, with representation.

When the Roman nation became Christianized there was a change and there was danger of being weakened by luxury. Then came the outpouring of the Goths and Vandals and the proud nation that had ruled the world was overpowered. The conquering hosts had good qualities. They believed in purity and safeguarded the home. In a sense, too, they saved the church and gave to Europe some of its choicest architecture. They gave Dante and other great writers. Then came the Norman conquest and from 449 to 597 Christianity was not in Britain. Later it was converted to the worship of God, but the predominating ecclesiastical power was intolerant and persecution most dreadful was the result.

This was gallant to the people of sturdy ancestry, who sought freedom to worship according to the dictates of their own consciences. They sought it in the new world and they sought freedom in all things. They have been called narrow and bigoted but when it is remembered how great persecutions they endured before sailing for the new world and vastly ahead of the time they were in all manner of progress they are entitled to the greatest praise. They sought freedom to worship God; to establish full religious liberty, education for all and the best in all things attainable. The discourse was one which was a just tribute and fair and accurate in all points.

Criticisms of the Puritans reminds one of a story of a smart young man who visited the world's fair at Chicago, and noticing a statue of George Stevenson in front of the transportation building, asked what that man had done to deserve such great honor and was told he had been a pioneer, perfecting the locomotive and putting it into actual use, and then his informant took the young man into the building and showed him the first locomotive ever used in this country.

The smart young man ridiculed it greatly and pointed to Mr. Depew's favorite New York Central engine, No. 999, but the young man was reminded that the wonderful 999 was due to the genius which prepared the old machine which was a thousand fold greater achievement than the engine of today.

OBITUARY.

An old citizen of Littleberry passed away Friday morning early. He ate a hearty breakfast on this eventful morning, then quietly laid himself down and died without a struggle. Mrs. S. H. Crum found his lifeless body in about an hour after the sad occurrence. This old citizen was named Dandy. He had been brought up in the Crum family and had always been an ambitious horse man from his birth. Mr. S. H. Crum used Dandy for a saddle horse and had always a sadder perfect satisfaction from him. He was also a good buggy horse for women as well as men. Dandy was about twenty-seven years old, had done his full duty to his owner and toward the world, for he made the world better for his being one of its servants.

Mr. and Mrs. Crum will feel the loss of so good a horse, but they have the sympathy of the whole town and community and they will long remember the good points, the kind disposition and the good sense of Dandy.

The Literary M. E. Society will serve a noon hour lunch at Arcadia on Wednesday, at the sale of J. J. Clark. Lunch committee: Mrs. Charlie Clark, Mrs. Wayne Dinwiddie, Mrs. Oral Rexroat. The money will be used for the Passavant Memorial Hospital Building Fund.

Rev. E. M. Crabtree filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church on Sunday morning and evening, preaching two fine sermons from the Book of Job. A revival meeting will commence at the church on the 29th and will last for two weeks or more, conducted by the regular pastor.

Samuel Story of Murrayville was among the business men of the city yesterday.

The New Agriculture-- the Coming Science

(By Mrs. J. Marshall Miller.)

Missouri was one of the first states to see the importance of the agriculture college, then Michigan came strongly to the front, and now nearly every state in the union has a strong state agricultural college.

Here it is that the farmer boys are getting their education, and here it is they are getting the agricultural training that will make this nation the foremost agricultural nation in the world.

Here they are taught the great value of soil analysis and the need of supplying that in which the soil is deficient. In former times the farmer blundered along, and by costly experience came to find that this piece of land would not raise certain crops and may be after years of almost failure of crops found that it would raise some other crop. Today the younger farmer is taught to analyze his soil, and there is no guessing as to what is needed in the line of fertilizers or as to what crops are best adapted to that land. Our dairy industry has been greatly increased by the knowledge gained at our experiment stations. Here the most complex and exacting science is used in testing the results of different feeds, to produce dairy products and the quickest animal growth for the least money.

We used to think any man could make a farmer, but to be a successful farmer, a man must be painstaking, exacting in the extreme—one who attends to everything with the regularity of clock work—ever alert and watchful—tireless and willing and ready at all times to meet new emergencies, studious and above all, patient and always on the job. Farming is no child's play—something one can work at today and be away tomorrow or for a week.

Chemistry enters largely into the work of the scientific farmer. There is greater call today for scientific or expert farmers, than for men of any professions. In many localities county farmers are employed. These men are graduates of the best agricultural schools, and are employed at from $2,000 to $3,500 per year.

Tell me of any other profession where a man can graduate in his chosen life work and step into so remunerative a position. The young man who graduates in law or medicine expects to spend years working up a practice before he can have such an income. These county, or district agents go about thru their territory advising the farmers in all lines of their work. How to feed cattle and hogs so as to put on the most fat at the least cost of feed—analyzing the soils and telling the farmer what his soil needs, and whether it will pay best to buy commercial fertilizers or grow legumes to plow under. Telling him what is best adapted to his land as a crop, and when insects, and blight and drought come advising him how best to overcome such conditions. In fact a doctor of agriculture.

The systematic and thoro study of pests and diseases incident to the farm has done much to overcome the draw backs to farming. With many kinds of crop spraying, with some mixture which is poisonous to the insect or fungus growth will control it. But it is not practical to spray all crops. Spraying fruit trees is comparatively easy, but one can't spray a wheat crop in order to stop the Hessian fly or the rust. One can spray apple trees to stop the fungus growth and scab on the fruits or for worms or aphids, and the brown rot in peaches, and curly leaf, and cherry blight or shot-hole fungus and for all kinds of caterpillars, for lice and San Jose scale, but how can one spray for chinch bugs which suck the juice of the plant and live between the leaves of the wheat or corn and the stalk where they are completely out of reach?

It is comparatively easy to control the potato bug or beetle and the army worm, but nothing has been found to successfully cope with the boll weevil which destroys millions of dollars worth of cotton every year in the south land. The government has spent vast sums of money and her experts have labored for years in trying to discover a way to rid the country of it. It is a harmless looking little bug, not as large as the potato bug and like it has a hard back. He came across the Rio Grande river from Mexico and moved northward and eastward thru Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and part of Kansas. Planters hoped that the Mississippi river would stop him, but no. He is still marching steadily eastward at the rate of about fifty miles a year. The full grown beetle bores a hole into the young ball of cotton and there deposits its eggs. When hatched the worm eats its way out thru the fibre of the cotton, causing the boll or pod to drop off. Whole fields of cotton, and especially those of late planting, are destroyed by this insect. Spraying has little effect, other insects have been imported to make war on the boll weevil and birds have been introduced from abroad, and the weevil itself inoculated with disease, but all to little effect.

In the great orchard districts of our country, particularly in New York state the new system of spraying fruit trees with insecticides and poisons in the dust form is being tried out. While still in the experimental stage the results obtained by the horticultural department of Cornell university give great promise of the success of this method. It is far easier of application than the liquid form of sprays, more efficacious and cheaper.

The world is full of the constant war between good and evil in the moral and religious world. Of disease and death in the vegetable, as well as in the animal creation. Weeds, insects, blights and decay ever keep the farmer and fruit grower on the alert, and the battle goes on no less continuous in the agricultural world, than in the world of morals. A new pest or disease develops, and again and again is science called upon to meet it. The best minds of men and the most modern equipments of the laboratory, are constantly being called upon to cope with the ever increasing problems that confront the agricultural world.

The times have changed in regard to farm life perhaps more than in any line of labor. The telephones and daily delivery of mail to the farmer keeps him in close touch with the market and the world in general. The interurban trolley car in many localities gives the farmer's children the advantage of schools, lectures, concerts, etc., in the city, and at the same time allows the home ties to remain unbroken. The automobile has almost obliterated the distinction between urban and interurban life. Gas and electric power is common on the farm. Labor saving and time saving inventions have brought the rural life out of the privations and drudgery of a few decades ago and given a new life and opportunity to the farming community.

Agricultural machinery and implements, have multiplied, probably more than in any other one industry. Scientific invention, scientific soil cultivation, scientific stock breeding and marketing, scientific fruit growing and crop raising are the order of the day.

Farmers' journals, farmers' papers, farmers' lectures, farmers' bulletins, both state and national are ever ready and the farmer of today is attending lectures on scientific farming in his various lines.

Good roads is the slogan the country over. The auto it seems is going to bring about road conditions which means farm products can be put upon the market regardless of weather the year round.

The U. S. government is spending thousands of dollars annually in scientific research in the interests of agriculture and all that pertains to the advancement and welfare of rural life not only in the fields and with the stock but the farmer's house, and how it may be made more comfortable, handy and healthful, and how the social side of his family may be given wholesome and instructive entertainment and the highways improved for his travel.

We are glad the newspapers and magazines of the country have been in the last few years the subject of "back to the soil" and that it is a popular topic and that it is advocated, as an ideal, healthful and remunerative life and occupation. Our schools and colleges as well as our Universities are putting the agricultural course into their curriculum of studies.

All this is well. It is the dawn of a new day. The best preparedness the country can turn to—not only to feed her people but to give them that stability of character, moral poise and robust physique that makes a nation self reliant, stable and courageous. That nation or community, which abandons its farmers and rural life and flocks into the cities and crowded centers and leaves the farms to the tenant class, often foreigners, and seeks the city life and its allurements, soon goes to decay. When Imperial Rome had conquered the world and left her hands to be cultivated by plebeians and slaves, she lapsed into luxury, excesses and vice and Rome fell. What has been the record in Ireland? Even our high born New England has lost her high standing and place in the affairs and ideals of our country.

We are very hopeful of the outlook. Times and the ideals of a people change. The life of the farmer is not looked upon now as one of menial labor and hardship. I have heard a good old farmer say to his sons, "Get an education and don't have to dig your living out of the ground as I have done." He would not say that now. Science, invention have reached out their helpful hand to the farmer and more than all public sentiment has changed and the country looks now upon the farmer with envy rather than sympathy. What a grand change—fraught with so much that is good and great in the health, morals, wealth and happiness of our people. The stability, independence and power of our republic is in the keeping of our rural population.

When ancient Rome needed a leader to save her from her enemies she called Cincinnatus from his plow and made him dictator, and when he had brought victory and restored peace to his country he could not be tempted by political power but returned to his plow. In our nation's history a Washington, a Lincoln, a Grant and a Garfield—men from farms and the country homes were called to direct the ship of state. The union itself was preserved by the soldiers from the prairies, the woodland and hillside. Wonderful heritage is that of the child reared in the sunshine and free air, close to nature and nature's God in the country home.

If it were not for the rich, red, vivid blood of the farm coming into our cities, they would soon fade and decay. Did you ever stop to think of the jurists, the bankers, the railroad presidents—the men who do "big business" in our land—who are they? The boy from the farm, James J. Hill, the Empire Builder was such a one and his success was in the recognition of the possibilities of raising and marketing the grain and cattle of the great, fertile Northwest.

All honor to the teacher who teaches the science of good farming, to the magazine writer that advocates better farming and more farming; to the poet like Will Carleton and James Whitcomb Riley who sings of the graces and charms, of the dear old farm and the country life.

Shame on the parent that would teach his child to shun the farm and the simple life as beneath his ideals and aspirations. The possibilities for greatness, goodness and beneficence in modern farm life are beyond comparison. It makes for this life and the life to come, fortune and for eternity.

was what the Spanish explorer sought in Florida. Youth cannot be perpetual, but with health a man or woman can retain youthful looks till the near approach of actual old age. If a woman is dragging wearily along oppressed by some woman's ailment, she may expect a return of youthful beauty and vivacity by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Adv.
